

Navos is now hiring an Infant Mental Health Therapist. The Infant Mental Health Therapist will work with infants, toddlers and preschool children within the Infant Mental Health Program of Child and Family Services at Navos. This is a full time permanent position with benefits. The Therapist will work as a member of the Infant Mental Health program seeing young children and their parents or caregivers in home based and office based services. Clinical responsibilities include but are not limited to: conducting intakes and assessments, documentation of services, provide home and community based therapeutic intervention services, direct therapy and case management and participating in team meetings. The primary focus of therapy is on promoting and enhancing infant /toddler mental health and well being & the child caregiver relationship.

Qualifications: Masters Degree in Health Sciences as well as Infant Mental Health Certificate, Endorsement or equivalent training completed, in process or willingness to complete. The ideal applicant will have knowledge about development and behavior of infants and young children experiencing distress as well as interventions and collateral systems, be organized and able to manage time effectively and be able to build and maintain both clinical and collegial relationships. Critical thinking coupled with empathy and compassion highly valued. Professional experience with high needs infant/toddler and families preferred. A current driver's license and clean driving record needed as well as reliable personal transportation (mileage reimbursed). Bilingual applicants and persons of color are strongly encouraged to apply. Equal Opportunity Employer.

Send resume to:
Victor Place LMFT
victor.place@navos.org
Director Child and Family Program
Navos
2600 S.W. Holden St.
Seattle, WA. 98126