

Knowledgeable Practice Series

Supporting your Work with Infants Toddlers and Families

A Professional Development Series for 2010

Sponsored by

Relationships between practitioners and families can be key to positive outcomes for babies and parents in human service and educational settings. Part One of this series, Foundations, is intended for practitioners who want training in the core foundational competence areas. These may be the newer infant mental health practitioners or those who want a refresher in these areas. The sessions focus on concepts that allow participants to ground their practice and develop sophisticated skills in the context of building and maintaining relationships. Session leaders are experienced professionals whose backgrounds include extensive clinical and academic work, teaching, research, supervision, and whose current practices meet endorsement standards established by the Michigan Association for Infant Mental Health.

PART ONE- Foundations:

March 26	Social Work Ethics for Home Visitors With a Focus on Serving Families of Infants and Toddlers	Carla Barron Nicole Paradis
May 7 & 14	Social-Emotional Development in Infants & Toddlers	Kay Loftus Mary Beth Reimer
July 29, 30 & August 9	An Introduction to Infant Mental Health Principles and Practice	Carol Oleksiak Karol Wilson

Who Should Attend?

Practitioners who want to expand/deepen their clinical capacity to work with infants, toddlers and their families, including IMH professionals, Early Childhood professionals, Early On professionals, Child Development professionals, Nurse home visitors, Early Childhood mental health consultants and professionals seeking MI-AIMH Endorsement.
